About the Story

The Doll Zone was written by the creative 14-year old writer, Zyad Abdelsatar, as a contribution to the Children's Story Writing Competition that was organized by Canadian Dream Centre in Ontario, Canada in April 2020. The Doll Zone won the first place for the accuracy of its language and the creativity and originality of its idea.

In this short story, Max was feeling scared in a Doll Store. Why was he there? What was the secret behind the Doll Zone? Will he meet his friend Kyle at the end?! We are very proud to publish this story to give the chance to all children to enjoy it.

The Doll Zone

“ Mom, may I please go over to Kyle’s house? He wanted me to help him defeat the Lunar Lynx in Mortabulant Combat!” requested Max. “ I guess you can go, but make sure your phone is with you and answer me when I call you.” sighed Laura. Max quickly grabbed his bike for a more fun and efficient way of getting there.

Max's favorite season was the summer, and more specifically, days like today.

There were green trees and grass, a nice breeze, and of course the shining hot sun.

Max was about 2-3 minutes away from Kyle's house, and was hoping Kyle had something to eat, since Max was starving.

Max was riding his bike very fast, then he started slowing down when he was near a corner store. He stopped by to see it and it was called The Doll Zone. Max was so sure he's never seen that store before... it was probably new. Max looked through the store windows and his eyes grew bigger and wider.

He found a doll that looked exactly just like him. It had black hair, round black eyes, the exact same Nike outfit, and the doll was on a red bike that looked just like his. The only difference was that it looked damaged and bloody, which creeped Max out. He got off his bike and tried to open the door of the store, but it wouldn't move. He looked through the window and his doll was gone.

As soon as he started to walk away, the door opened. Max turned around and walked in, spotting his doll. He walked closer to it and tried to get it, but for someone who was 5'4, he was too short to get something that was 6'3 high. He grabbed a stool that was lying beside a table and slowly got on it, so he would not fall and hurt himself. The stool gave Max an extra push and he touched the doll. His world turned upside down... nightmares came through his mind... his muscles started to tighten... he started having a headache so terrible that he couldn't feel his surroundings.

Max tried opening his eyes
, but his eyelids felt heavy.

He tried again until he finally opened his eyes.

It took him some time to realize that he was on the same shelf as his doll. He finally understood what was happening...

HE WAS TRAPPED INSIDE THE DOLL'S BODY!!! Voices in his head started whispering and then getting louder only hearing "WELCOME TO THE DOLL ZONE!". "MAX! MAX! WAKE UP MAX!" yelled Mr. John. Max woke up and said, 'Sorry! I'm very sorry. I didn't sleep well last night.'

“I don't remember asking about the story of your life. Now, what is  $9+10$ ?” asked Mr. John. “21?” questioned Max. The whole class started laughing, including his best friend, Kyle. One thing that Max was happy about was that he wasn't zoned in a DOLL STORE.

The End
